Redbox games switch

3 comments Stephanie Prange March 21, 2018 Redbox is leaving the game rental business, the company confirmed to The Verge on Monday. The company's trademark rental kiosks have been a convenient way to rent physical copies of movies (if you still have a disc drive to play them, that is), and have been one of the few remaining places to rent physical copies of video games. But if you trusted Redbox kiosks as your place to rent or even buy new PlayStation, Xbox, or Switch titles, you won't be able to do it anymore. In a statement, Redbox says he is permanently transitioning out of the gaming business to focus exclusively on movies. Games can still be purchased until the end of the year Some Reddit users first noticed that Redbox rental kiosks no longer offered video game rentals, and the company confirmed on Twitter that game rentals are no longer available. In his tweet, Redbox said you could still buy games until early next year, but the company clarified to The Verge in its statement that you can only buy games from a Redbox kiosk until the end of the year. The change is disappointing for players who trusted Redbox as a convenient way to rent games. With Redbox no longer offering rentals, and the death of rental stores like Blockbuster (there is only one left in the world), there are simply not many local places to casually browse and rent a game. One rental option is to subscribe to a mail rental service like GameFly, but those usually come at a monthly cost and may not send you the exact game you want just when you want it. If you have a Redbox near you that offered games, you may be able to get a good deal on some games before they disappear from kiosks forever at the end of the year. For example, Redbox tells us it will offer Death Stranding and Jedi: Fallen Order for $39.99. Source: Redbox Redbox leaves the video game rental business. The company wants to get rid of its video game inventory quickly. At this time you can buy used games from Xbox One, PlayStation 4 and Nintendo Switch for ridiculously cheap. The best options will go quickly, so you'll want to snatch these offers quickly. Unfortunately, some kiosks don't have any video games or don't have many to choose from. Earlier this month, Redbox revealed that it was leaving the game rental business in order to focus solely on movie rentals. Since Redbox has been renting video games for the past few years, the company has acquired a fairly large inventory of Xbox One, Playstation 4 and Nintendo Switch games. As part of its transition to movie-only rentals, Redbox is selling this huge inventory at prices Low. The thing is, you can only buy these games through your local Redbox kiosks, so you're at the mercy of what's available near you. On the besides that, they come in the case of the Redbox disc instead of the official box, but considering how cheap they are selling, it's Oth You can check which games are on your local kiosks by going to the Redbox website. Here are some really good prices. Only at my local kiosks, I've seen Death Stranding for PS4 with only $24.99, Borderlands 3 for Xbox One with only $19.99, and Super Mario Maker 2 for Nintendo Switch selling for just $34.99. These offers will fly out of these kiosks once it's said, so you'll want to check your local Redbox machines as soon as you can. It's the best time of year for this to happen too. You may be able to pick up the perfect Christmas gift for super cheap. Check your local kiosks before they sell from all the good video games! Giving the entertainment gift Redbox offers a wide range of entertainment. If you send funds to someone, they can rent a movie or buy a used video game at their local Redbox kiosk. We can earn a purchase fee using our links. Learn more. If you're interested in picking up a game for either you or as a last-minute gift, you can enter your zip code on the Redbox website to see if it's available at kiosks in your area. Just keep in mind, as Lifehacker points out, that each game comes in one of Redbox's red jewelry boxes, rather than in its original packaging. However, that's a small price to pay to get a new game like Death Stranding for $25. In addition, you can get a new case online cheaply and easily. Redbox announced its plan to stop renting games earlier this month. The company did not provide a reason for the change, but digital subscription services such as Xbox Game Pass are likely to be cleared in the company's decision. It's hard to compete against services that offer more games than you could play until completion for as little as a dollar a month. Month.
